

POSES AS GIRL 23 YEARS, THEN WEDS

EAST CORINTH, Mo., Aug. 21.—Members of the Union Baptist Church are about evenly divided over the proposed expulsion of "Sister" Norton following the discovery that the young person who has been posing as a girl here for twenty-three years was actually "Mr. Eugene" Cody Norton.

The village was stirred to its depths a few days ago when "Cora" returned from a trip to the White mountains in company with Miss Abby E. Foster, a teacher in the East Corinth Academy, and straightaway applied at the town clerk's office for a marriage license, explaining to that astonished official that in reality "she" was a man.

The license was issued, and Norton and Miss Foster were married in the State house in Augusta. There have been noisy serenades under the couple's window since their return. The indignation of the church members extends to "Cora's" bride, because it is asserted that Norton had confided the truth regarding his sex to Miss Foster, but that the latter had permitted him to be baptized and received into the church as a "sister."

Draft Board Interested.
Dozens of persons today are declaring that they always had noticed "Cora" had an extraordinarily deep voice for a girl and that "she" was exceptionally capable with the chores, making entire care of a herd of twenty cows.

Draft board officials are interested in the disclosure of "Cora's" sex, as "she" failed to register under the selective law. It was in connection with this that Norton and Miss Foster went to Augusta to see the governor. What took place in the gubernatorial office other than that there was a marriage ceremony has not been disclosed.

According to Mrs. Norton, her husband's mother is responsible for the deception. He has practiced for years because when he was a young boy she dressed him in girl's clothing. She said that several times he had attempted to reveal his secret, but that he had become so accustomed to his feminine role that he found it impossible.

Always Discreet.
"I challenge any one in East Corinth to show that he has ever been guilty of the slightest indiscretion, even in word," said Mrs. Norton of her husband today. His character is Christian and blameless. I know what the people here, especially the women, are saying: "To think that that man was among our daughters at school and church affairs and that he has never violated the confidence of any person and he is perfectly honorable."

"I am a teacher in the East Corinth Academy, and Mr. Norton was one of my pupils. My motto is to fall in love with my pupils the first day of school and never to fall out of love with them. I was fond of him, thinking he was a girl. He boarded at my house and did the chores among the farmers. Three days before school closed last June he came to me and told me he was a man. Then last week we filed our marriage intentions, and now we are married."

Girls Knew He Shaved.
"When did you fall in love with him?" the bride was asked.
"Well, I don't think that is any of the public's business," Mrs. Norton said. On the day after Norton and Miss Foster filed their marriage intentions the former created a near riot in the village street by appearing in a man's suit. His hair, formerly long and done up in a knot at the back of his head, was cut short. It was of finer texture apparently than that of most young men. His hands were softer and whiter than the average masculine hands. Norton is still ill at ease in his male attire, and continues to sit and walk with feminine grace.

East Corinth girls say now that they have always known "Cora" was "some one." They knew, they declare, that Norton shaved during the time they thought him of their own sex. His deep, masculine voice often startled them. But despite all this it is likely that he never, never would have got into difficulties with the draft board if he just hadn't fallen in love with his teacher.

FARMERS PLEDGE HELP IN THE WAR

Farmers and business men of Prince George's county, near Upper Marlboro, Md., assembled yesterday in the court house and pledged themselves to assist the Government's combined campaign of food, farm, and finance.

The men adopted a resolution which pledged a 10 per cent increase of next season's wheat crop, 1,000,000 Maryland sheep for the army wool supply, intensive cultivation of idle land in the county, and other important measures, all for the winning of the war.

Dr. Clarence J. Owens, managing director of the Southern Commercial Congress, presided, and outlined the program. Dr. A. F. Woods, president of the Maryland State College, pledged the utmost energies of that institution, and Vice President Shambarger, of the Federal Land Bank, of Baltimore, pledged the co-operation of the Farm Loan Board.

SEES END OF WAR WITHIN THE YEAR
PARIS, Aug. 21.—Premier Clemenceau, in a conference with Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, expressed his belief that the war will be brought to a successful conclusion within a year. The French official expects a decisive battle, with the triumph of allied arms, this year.

Senator Lewis said the premier lauded the splendid showing of American troops in the recent fighting. He told of the inspiring effect American military aid had brought to the French Premier. Clemenceau commended President Wilson as a constructive leader. He asked the Senator to bring messages of felicitation to the President and citizens of the country.
